MARQUITS Bee

DJ & PRODUCER

BIOGRAPHY

Marquis Bee has spent twenty years reading Chicago rooms. Born in Boston and raised in Oak Park, he came up on the teen club circuit, where the scene named him Boston and it stuck. He started out as a promoter and learned early that a room does not fill itself, then Frankie Howland put him behind the decks in 2005. He studied audio production and kept building, releasing as 2D Electro on Dance More Records and Moon Records. By 2017 he was in a room most nights of the week: Soundbar, Trophy Room, Debonair, Evil Olive and the Annex. When the work stopped in 2020 he stepped away, then came back to a Friday residency at Fitz's Pub in Elmhurst and has not missed one since. He founded the clothing brand His Revenge the same year and shoots the photography and video himself. Weddings, corporate events, festivals and clubs across Chicagoland: open format, twenty years deep, read for whoever is on the floor.
